'round town

with Betty Allen...

The moving of the house next to the library which was postponed from last wek to this Tuesday was an event of great interest to all sidewalk engineers including me. It looks very simple—to watch—but there's probably a lot more to it than that. Mr. Anderson of the Anderson Brothers Housemovers, Mt. View, who was in charge of the project, said that it was a mighty simple one since it weighed only about 45 tons. The only complication were the low telephone wires which had to be raised during the process. According to Mr. Anderson, nothing ever gets broken in the houses during a move—not even a teacup. By the time he moves the house next to Conley's real estate office he expects to have new pneumatic-tired dolies which will cushion the jar of moving even more, so that not even a curtain will move.

Next Wednesday is the day set for the hearing by the County Planning Commission on the setback and widening of Campbell Ave. This will interest all property owners and should interest everyone who cares about Campbell's future welfare. You can only express yourself by being present. . . .

Junice Benson called to say that Evelyn Scott, grammar school teacher, is the person deserving all the credit for the Poppy Day window decorating job.

Understand that Les Applegarth's dog, Maggie, is most unhappy since she has been shaved.

There's an air of tense expectancy around our house these days since our daughter's pet turtle escaped from it's bowl. A thorough search has failed to find it and there's always the dreadful thought that you may step on it unknowingly. Now let me see . .. if I were a turtle where would I go?

Something worse than that happened last Sunday to a Campbell business man who became seasick while fishing at Santa Cruz and lost something a lot more important than a turtle. . . .

Vivian and Paul Becker who are leaving soon to live in Guatemala, have announced that their apartment is taken, the furniture sold, their car not for sale and their ration books disposed of. They will be much missed by their many Campbell friends and Ethan Lanphear has written a poetic farewell to them. It reads:

Our good friend Paul
Has felt the call
To the southern tropic's bliss;
But that's not all
That makes us bawl,
There's Vivian we will miss.

We wish this buck
The best of luck
In ventures way down south.
The clammy muck
May get him stuck
Or downcast in the mouth.

So when he's done
And had his fun,
We hope he'll hit the track
To our cooler sun
With his fortune won
And his ten kids on his back

Former Minister To Visit Here

The Rev. D. M. Baldwin, former Methodist minister here, accompanied by Mrs. Baldwin and their two sons, Donald and Frank, are driving West from their home in Mendham, New Jersey, to attend the annual California Methodist conference to be held at Santa Cruz. On Sunday, June 9, the pulpit of the Campbell Methodist church will be occupied by the Rev. Baldwin. While in Campbell the Baldwins will be the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Kennedy.

Every week a name will be drawn from our list of new subscribers and printed in the classified ad column. The person whose name appears there may receive two free passes to the Campbell Theater by calling at the Press Office. Look and see if your name is there!

Legion Sponsored Play Tomorrow Night

Tomorrow evening at the Campbell Union High school auditorium a large audience will view the Footlighters' presentation of a three-act comedy entitled "A Fair Exchange", which is being sponsored by the Campbell Post No. 596 of the American Legion. Proceeds of the production which begins at 8:15, will go to the American Legion building fund.

Made up, for the most part, of experienced Footlighters, the cast and production personnal include two returned veterans, formerly active in the group. Dean Chamberlin, club director, has resumed his official capacity and has rehearsed the cast thoroughly and tirelessly. The other returned Footlighter, Paul Becker, who is leaving with Mrs. Becker to make their home in Guatemala, plays the role of Sammy Goldberg in the hilarious comedy.

Other members of the cast are Vivian Becker, Budd Levenberg, Florence Horton, Thais Ackerman, Charles Keesling, Ida Levenberg, Archie Keesling and Jack Murdock. Ellen Lanphear nad Mae Greaves will be prompters, and Ethal Lanphear has charge of the staging. In the property department are Mack Ross, Arlene Murdock and Irene Hodges. Warren Turner will take care of the curtain and lights, Marion Nelson the make-up and Mabel Keesling the costumes.

Under the direction of Richard Gordan, the Campbell Union Grammar school orchestra, will furnish music during the intermissions.

Local Artists Win Recognition

Mrs. L. R. Lewis nad Mrs. Lyn Thompson, who have been studying with Frank Cutting, well-known art teacher, have been made members of the Women's Art Society of Santa Clara County and have each had a picture accepted for showing in the exhibition of members' work now at the Arts Reading Room of the San Jose State College Library Building at San Antonio and Fourth.

The exhibit, open Monday through Friday from 9 to 5 o'clock, will close June 17.

Done in oils, both Campbell women's pictures have as their subjects local scenes. Mrs. Lewis' "Big Trees" shows giant redwoods typical of the nearby redwood forests. For her painting Mrs. Thompson chose the Steven's Creek Dam.

Air Line Will Link Sixteen Cities With S. F.

San Francisco will become the hub of an air service reaching into 16 Northern and Central California communities under a franchise granted recently by the Civil Aeronautics Board to Southwest Airways of Thunderbird Field, Arizona.

The line's proposed service will extend from Los Angeles to Medford, Oregon, and will consist of three "egs".

One will start at San Francisco and bring regular service to Santa Rosa, Ukiah, Fort Bragg and Eureka.

The second will start at San Francisco and serve Vallejo, Sacramento, Marysville, Chico, Red Bluff, Redding, Dunsmuir and Yreka.

The third will take off from Los Angeles and, after stops at Oxnard, Ventura, Santa Barbara and Santa Maria, will link San Luis Obispo, Paso Robles, Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Jose to San Francisco.

Leland Hayward, president of Southwest Airlines, announced that service will get underway in about four months. Initial equipment will consist of six Douglas DC-3 airliners for passenger and cargo carrying.

Group To Discuss Incorporation

Monday, June 24, is the date set by the Campbell Taxpayers' Association to consider the incorporation of Campbell. A committee has been at work drawing up tentative boundary lines for the proposed incorporated area as it would be impossible to discuss the financial aspects of the matter unless the assessed valuation of the district was defined.

The suggested boundaries for the proposed incorporated area recommended by the committee are: Commencing at a point at junction of Moorpark and Los Gatos Road; from Los Gatos Road west along Moorpark to Winchester Road; Winchester south to Payne; Payne west to San Tomas Creek; follow east bank of creek south to Rincon; Rincon, west and south to Virginia and south along Virginia to San Tomas Aquino Road; San Tomas Aquino west to Burrows; Burrows, south to Pollard; Pollard, southeast to Wedgewood; Wedgewood, east across railway tracks to east side of Los Gatos Creek; creek, northeast to Dry Creek and along Dry Creek to Keesling; follow creek and school boundary to Fruitdale; west along Fruitdale to Meridian; Meridian, north to Moorpark; Moorpark, west to point of commencement.

Largest Class Graduates From Grammar School

The grammar school auditorium will be the scene next Thursday evening of the largest class ever to graduate from the Campbell school. According to William Henley, principal, 97 students will receive their diplomas.

Composed entirely of talent within the graduating class, the program to commemorate the occasion will include an address of welcome by Robert Taylor; a vocal duet by Mildred Weeks and Jarralee Plessner; a short address entitled "Pursuit of Happiness Through Play" by Jill Garner; two numbers by the Eigth Grade String Ensemble; a reading, "Myself" by Orme Shockley; two numbers by the Eighth Grade Chorus; another address entitled "Pursuit of Happiness Through Work" by George Ingram; a trumpet duet by Harry Fish and Warren Thorpe, and several numbers by the school orchestra under the direction of Richard Gordon.

William C. Henley, principal and district superintendent, will award the diplomas and Al Carter will present the American Legion awards. The invocation will be given by the Rev. Robert Carlson and Father J. Ryan will ask the benediction.

Also set for June 13 is the graduation of the senior class at Cambrian Elementary school with 14 students receiving their diplomas.

The Union school will hold graduation exercises on Wednesday, June 12, for the six students receiving diplomas.

Large Apricot Crop Expected

Santa Clara County apricot growers anticipate the largest crop in years, it was reported yesterday, and expect to begin harvesting between July 10 and 15.

Fruit probably will be smaller than that of last season, growers said, because of the unusually heavy crop. Continued cool weather may postpone the harvest.

Soft Ball Game Tonight

Campbell's soft-ball team will play the Los Gatos Lions tonight at 7:30 at Los Gatos. The night soft-ball season started in Los Gatos Tuesday evening with appropriate ceremonies.

Loses Brother

Mrs. M. J. Snyder, McCoy Ave., is receiving the condolences of her many friends in the loss of her brother, Earl J. Raymer, who died in San Jose June 1. Funeral services were conducted Monday at the Chapel of Roses a Oak Hill Memorial Park.

"Homes for Today" Exhibit

An exhibit of "Homes for Today", nationally exhibited show sponsored by Better Homes and Gardens magazine, is available to San Jose home builders now at the L. Hart & Son Co., department store.

The exhibit includes eight scale-modeled homes, completely furnished. A scale-model of a 100-acre, 140-home community is also shown.

"This is not just another home show of more or less familiar plans," said the store's management. "It is not a show of flat-roofed, glass-sheeted houses that daring folk build away off on hilltops."

"It is an exhibit that combines traditional exterior styled with modern interior plans. It demonstrates how to get the most in living out of every inch, not only of the home, but the lot."

Evans Leads In First Count, Blaine Ahead For Justice

Although the official count will not be made for five days, according to the figures compiled by The Press, Harry Evans, former Campbell constable, was elected by a narrow majority vote of 13 to the office of Town Constable in Tuesday's three-way race. Running 155 votes behind him was Ethan Lanphear, incumbent, and third was L. "Dad" Lee. Out of the 1377 votes cast for the office Evans received 695, Lanphear 540, and Lee 142.

Judge John Blaine led the race for Justice of the Peace with Martin Walsh, attorney, only 85 votes behind. Frank Weeks, was third, and George Jeffers received nine write-in votes. Blaine and Walsh will both run in the November elections since Blaine did not receive a majority vote. A total of 1445 votes was cast for this office, with Blaine receiving 669, Walsh 588, Weeks 151, and Jeffers 9.

Joe McKinnon was elected as County Supervisor with 9485 as against Bradley's total of 7433. In the Campbell district McKinnon received 814 with Bradley only 254 votes behind.

The new Constable was elected to the office before in 1938 which he left to go in the service in 1940. Since returning to Campbell last year, after more than three years with the Navy in the South Pacific, he has served as nightwatchman. The duties of his new office consist of the handling of the criminal and civil work, including the serving of papers.

Beckers To Live In Guatemala

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Becker have chosen Guatemala City as their future home and will leave by auto the last of the month expecting to arrive there the last of July. Becker returned recently from overseas after serving in the Army 34 months with the Ordnance Heavy Automotive Maintenance Company. Before entering the service he was vice-principal at the Campbell Grammar school where Mrs. Becker also taught.

The Beckers will drive directly to the Gulf of Texas, where they will take the Pan-American highway to Mexico City, then to Vera Cruz on the Gulf of Mexico and on to Guatemala. Four days of the trip will be spent sitting in their car which will be hoisted onto a flat car and taken through the jungles. This is the only part of the road that has not yet been completed.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Becker have leading roles in the Footlighters' production of "A Fair Exchange" being given as a Legion sponsored entertainment at the high school auditorium tomorrow evening. Becker has been a featured speaker at the last two meetings of Kiwanis Club, of which he is a member.

EDITORIAL

Those who stayed at home on Memorial Day found a nostalgic charm in the holiday quiet. With the stores closed and many residents away, the town seemed enveloped in a drowsy quiet. The reflection of each noticed activity lingered long in the mind . . . in the morning a man with a pack on his back and carrying two gunny sacks went slowly from house to house asking for work. By noon he was plodding slowly from town with a dejected stoop. Family groups were meeting outside houses and carefully laying huge bunches of flowers in their cars, a look of remembrance on their faces. In the dump, under the sign reading "Do Not Dump Garbage Here by Order of County Board of Supervisors", two children, intent and serious, searched through a collection of discarded tomato cans.

And in the center of town, late in the afternoon, separate flurries of activity here and there . . . friends gathering in a home to take part in the tender celebration of fifty years of marriage . . . the wife of one of the ministers carrying home from the bakery a huge cake to share with friends in a surprise birthday party for her husband.

It was a day of peace and tranquility. For the young, with no memories, it was a day to kiss your girl for the first time . . . a day to dream a new dream.

HOOVER AND REPORTERS

WASHINGTON—When Herbert Hoover staged a press conference after his talk with President Truman and Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, newsmen immediately asked what President Truman had told him.

The former chief executive—who has as rough a time with the press as any United States President in this century—replied with deep feeling:

"There ought to be a law," he said, "against anyone repeating what the President has said to him."

Hoover also refused to answer any questions about administration measures to meet the European emergency, and would not give any opinion when asked if U. S. rationing might we necessary.

ARMY DENTISTS

At long last Maj. Gen. Norman Kirk, who has the reputation for hoarding more medical manpower than any other surgeon general in history, has decided to let a few more doctors slip through his fingers and go back to civilian practice.

He has decred that all medical corps officers who have served 30 months as of May 1 can be released from the Army before June 30.

However, this does not apply to Army dentists, who are now getting to be the forgotten men of the U. S. Army.

For some strange reason best known to General Kirk, general service doctors can get out of the Army after 30 months, but a dentist must remain in 39 months. And today there are hundreds of patriotic dentists who gave up good practices to join the Army, now marking time at Army posts, unable to get discharged.

Furthermore, the brass hats have permitted the discharge of many younger dentists, while older men have to stay on. Many of the youngsters, educated at army expense, have been declared "essential to civilian practice" and discharged, while older men with families to support, can't get out. This means that younger dentists get their civilian practice firmly established before older men can even begin to look for scarce office space.

HOW TO HANDLE LEWIS

Towering Gov. Bob Kerr of Oklahoma, who packs close to 250 pounds and a droll wit, tells this story about a chat with a "prominent Republican" during a recent visit to Washington.

"Why doesn't Truman do something about John L. Lewis," complained the GOP-er, "instead of sitting around on his hands while Lewis ties up production in the entire country?"

"Lewis is a tough man to handle," said Kerr. "What would you suggest that the President do?"

"I could give him plenty of ideas if I had the chance."

"Okay," said Kerr, "I'm going to give you the chance. I'm a close friend of Harry Truman. In fact, I am going to see him tomorrow morning. And I happen to know that right now, more than anything in the world, he wants the answer to this coal strike. So you just sit down and write out the solution and I'll give it to him the first thing in the morning."

The discussion ended right there.

RAIL BITTERNESS

For a long time, bad blood had existed between the trainmen-engineer brotherhoods and the other three—conductors, switchmen and firemen. It has been somewhat like the CIO-AFL row, but the bitterness deepened after the Roosevelt arbitration dispute.

Whitney, at the time, sent a letter to all his trainmen excoriating the other brotherhoods for refusing to arbitrate—a letter which doesn't put him in such a good light today. Among other things, he made up a little poem which read:

"Three blind mice—hear how they talk!
They all refuse to arbitrate—
They're gambling with their country's fate—
Though the hour is getting late
For the three blind mice."

"Were they afraid to trust the President?" Whitney asked his fellow trainmen in the round-robin letter. "Or is it possible that they (the other three brotherhoods) were playing organization politics in the hope that they may strengthen their numerical and financial condition?"

Letters to the Editor

Death in Campbell

Dear Editor:

For many years we have been accustomed to seeing a prominent figure parading our streets most evidently suffering from a terrible disease. The patient was reluctant to accept the advice of a physician who might have been able to cure him, but instead followed the instructions of some of his friends who were anxious for him to survive even though he suffered agony.

An investigation into his death has been conducted, and it has been determined that the new Campbell Taxpayers' Association was responsible for his death immediately preceding the school bonds election. He was buried without any sign of regret on the part of Campbell residents, for his name was "apathy and indifference". The fact that nearly 1200 voted at the last election proves that death did actually occur, and in its place one can observe signs of Campbell awakening to take its rightful place as a progressive community.

Campbell main street must be widened.

Additional lighting must be provided.

We must have new industries.

Campbell must be incorporated.

The Campbell Taxpayers' Association is not a group of men fighting for self interests, but an association of the people for the benefit of the people.

On Monday, June 24, a public meeting will be held to consider incorporation. Every taxpayer is cordially invited to attend and join in the discussion. Further details will be given in The Campbell Press in their next issue.

Stanford President Discusses Post-War Education

"If present tensions are not eased, both at home and abroad, the consequences for Western civilization must be serious and may well be catastrophic," President Donald B. Tresidder of Stanford University declared in his annual report for 1944-45, released recently.

"In the wake of so exhausting and destructive a war as the one just finished, it is unavoidable that there should appear tensions between nations and among our own citizens, but none the less the present confusion and disunity on the home front, together with the evident deterioration of our international relations, are causes for the deepest concern," he said.

"The post-war years, quite as much as the war years, are a time for universities to exert their fullest influence toward world and national betterment. The responsibility that rests upon them is heavy, but their opportunity is breathtaking.

"They must of courrse redouble their efforts to train talented youth as doctors, engineers, scientists, administrators, diplomats. But the most important prerequisite for such professional training must be education for citizenship in a free society. In a world of unbelief, the universities must put their full weight on the side of tolerance, justice, and strict adherence to moral principles. Stanford has not deviated from this concept of its responsibility since its founding."

Commenting upon the return of veterans to colleges and universities, Dr. Tresidder declared that "the quickness and ease with which they adjusted to civilian life was very striking. They have shown a reassuring maturity and seriousness of purpose, and have maintained a scholarship record higher than the general average of the university.

He added that much that has been written about "veterans' problems" in the colleges and universities has been greatly exaggerated.

"Were it not for the acute, nation-wide housing shortage, there would be no 'veterans' problems' of any moment at Stanford," he declared. "On the contrary, the university is indebted to them for bringing a serious, stablizing influence to the campus at a time when it is most welcome."

Dr. Tresidder reported in detail on the operation of the university during the last war year and on plans for peacetime development. It is expected, he said, that both the importance and scope of the ROTC and NROTC will be increased and that both the Army and Navy will contract for a limited amount of special research.

"Most important of all," he said, "is a proposal now pending for the government to sponsor fundamental research programs and to offer scientific and technical training to talented students."

He added that while the atomic bomb and other scientific developments focused public attention upon the importance of science to our society, "it is not, however, widely recognized that America's spectacular scientific achievements during the war have been, for the most part, based upon fundamental research which was done abroad. Our past record in fundamental discoveries is not impressive."

He urged adequate planning now for national defense, such planning to embrace not only the military establishments but also the dispersal of essential industry, stockpiling of strategic materials, conservation of natural resources, maintenance of adequate industrial capacity for war production, and extensive research in laboratories throughout the country.

Summer Concerts At Stanford

The Albeneri Trio, outstanding chamber music ensemble which made its debut last year, will present a series of eight summer concerts at Stanford University during July and early August.

The trio, top-flighted artists of international reputation, consists of Alexander Schneider, violinist; Benar Heifetz, cellist; and Erich Itor Kahn, pianist.

Concerts in the chamber music festival, available to the public without charge through the generosity of the Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge Foundation of the Library of Congress and the Friends of Music at Stanford, will be given in the auditorium of Memorial Hall on the evenings of July 9, 12, 14, 21, 23, 25, 28, and August 2.

Mr. Schneider was for 12 years second violinist of the famous Budapest String Quartet and more recently has toured with Ralph Kirkpatrick, distinguished harpsichordist. Mr. Heifetz was a member of the Kolisch String Quartet and is now solo cellist with the N. B. C. Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Arturo Toscanini. The other member of the trio, Mr. Kahn, has toured extensively as sololist and ensemble player and appeared with Pablo Casals in 1938-39.

The Albeneri Trio appeared in four concerts last summer at Stanford and also filled engagements at New York City's Town Hall, the University of Chicago, the Cleveland Museum of Art, and Harvard during their first season.

New Legion Auxiliary Members To Be Welcomed

A large class of candidates will be initiated, and the nominating committee will make its report. All members are urged to be present and give our new members a most cordial welcome.

Through the courtesy of The Campbell Press, the Campbell American Legion Auxiliary wishes to express its sincere thanks to Benson's Campbell Cleaners for the artistic and patriotic window display for Poppy Day.

So clever that you immediately say "why didn't someone think of that before" is the Free Vue Beauty mirror at the Campbell Pharmacy. It is constructed in such a way that it can be hung around your neck, leaving both hands free for action. In addition it can be propped up on any flat surface or folded flat when not in use and the two sides, one regular and one magnifying, can be reversed. Its clear plastic frame makes it an attractive addition to the dressing table.

A gift the girl graduate would cherish is the dainty ceramic "sweetheart" frame at The What Not. Its just right for a young girl's room with its perky little bow on top and the deceptively fragile flowers whose real purpose is to hold that best beau's picture firmly in place.

At Benson's there's a real find—100% wool shirts! They came from Australia and they look as though they could really "take it". They'd be ideal for both sports and work. The color is nice, too—it's called willow brown and won't show soil quickly.

The Campbell Hardware Company continues to show new postwar household gadgets. What took my eye this week is a salt and pepper set for kitchen use. Made of plastic in an easy-to-keep-clean design, the condiments drop from the bottom with a flick of the finger. It comes in red with a white top for the salt and a black top for the pepper—there's a small tray, too. The plastic is heat resistant so that the set can be kept right on the stove which, as any good cook knows, is a tremendous advantage.

Want to cut a dash at the beach? See Rachel's new bathing suits then. In one piece panty suits with separate bras there are some adorable flowered ones with either pink, blue or yellow backgrounds. One of the most original ones is made of white jersey and, guess what? Your derriere is covered with puckered jersey in a flowered pattern—either red, blue or green. Those old favorotes, two-piece satin lastex swim suits are back, too. They come in all colors and in white which is so flattering to your summer tan.

Everyone acquainted with Sandy Kin clothing will be delighted to know that a shipment has just arrived at The Dresser Drawer. Included are girls' blouses in crisp white with contrasting color stitch trim. They're beautifully tailored and have long sleeves, too. The famous Sandy Kin shorts are there, also. Cut full to flatter, they come in blue, green and yellwo. By the way, there's plenty of diapers at The Dresser Drawer—a very rare article these days.

Why not start a cup collection for the June graduate? The House of Riches has a marvelous selection to choose from. Many of them are recent imports and they are lovely. It's an idea for the June bride too . . . and have you tried using them for cigarettes and matches? They have coffee cups, tea cups and some sweet demi-tasses guaranted to capture "her" fancy.

Any woman would enjoy shopping for a father's dav present at Clark's Drugs if she's looking for an after-shaving set. All of the toiletry houses seem bent on outdoing each other to make attractive sets. A very masculine one is Hawick's with a sturdy shaving mug and two attractive brown jugs—one for talc and one for lotion. Early American has a nautical set, complete with soap, talc, cologne and lotion. Speaking of men's cologne, if Dad likes it, Orloff has a nice, tangy one called Bergamot, and he'll love the smart black bottle.

PLANT NOW

Millions of people are starving in Europe and Asia...and it is up to us Americans to feed them! We hope for peace and understanding in the world, and it will take bread and butter to realize that hope. We must give generously...and that means there will be some food scarcity at home. The way out is through a lesson we learned during the war ...raising food in our home gardens! In wartime 1943 the U. S. raised eight million tons of food in Victory Gardens, and American housewives put up three and one-half billion quarts of food...most of it home-grown. It is time for Americans to do it again!

MR. AND MRS. PETE SPRAGIA, Proprietors

Wedding Reception Held At Genasci Home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Genasci on Alice Ave. was the scene of a wedding reception following the afternoon rites at St. Joseph's church which united in marriage their niece, Miss Jacqueline DuPont and Joseph T. Bettencourt.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Louis Genasci, the bride wore a white satin gown, fashioned with a square neckline, fitted bodice, long sleeves that ended in points at the wrist and a full skirt with a long train. She also wore a fingertip veil edged in lace and held in place by a white-beaded coronet. Her flowers were bouvardia and orchids.

Maid of honor was Miss Elaine Dias, who wore a dress of white net over satin, styled with short sleeves, a high rounded neckline and bouffant skirt. Pink roses made up her bouquet.

George Alameda served as best man and ushers were Daniel Dorsa and Manuel Bettencourt, uncle of the bridegroom.

For her niece's wedding, Mrs. Genasci chose a black frock with pink accessories and a fur neckpiece. This was complimented by a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Victor Alemada, mother of the bridegroom, wore a black suit with powder blue accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

After a wedding trip to Santa Barbara the young couple will make their home in San Jose. The new Mrs. Bettencourt graduated from Campbell Union High school and from O'Connor's School of Nursing. The benedict has recently been discharged from the U. S. Army.

Gold Rush Days To Be Celebrated

Auburn celebrates its Gold Rush Revival Days on June 7, 8, and 9, by staging a wild and woolly jubilee reminiscent of the old West, with entertainment features for all ages. Best of all they propose to put this event on each year up to and including 1950.

June 7 opens the celebration with a gold display at the Placer County Bank. E. Clampus Vitus and the Whiskerinos of the Universe will sponsor an old time "Horribles" torch light parade, starting at 8 p. m. Promising to be of unusual interest is the Gold Rush queen coronation, held under the auspices of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Daily events include free admission to Helldorado from 10 to 5 p. m. with a 60-cents admission charge after 6 p. m. Entertainment features include floor shows, dancing and miscellaneous midway entertainment. The American Legion Gold Rush rodeo offering all of the thrilling western rodeo events, with trick riding and roping, runs both Saturday and Sunday, with final championship awards being made on Sunday.

Saturday, June 8, the Gold Rush parade with Governor Warren as honorary guest, heads the special event list. An air show and flying circus featuring jet-propelled planes from McClelland Field will be held at 3 p. m., both Saturday and Sunday, under the auspices of the Placer County Aerial Posse. A display of training equipment and an exhibition from McClelland Field will be held at the Auburn Grammar school grounds. Memorial services will be held in all Auburn churches on Sunday, commemorating the establishment of the Overland Emigrant Trail, recalling the u nfortunate Donner party's expedition of 100 years ago.

Dancing under the stars to the music of a well-known orchestra, at the Freeman Hotel will also be a daily feature. On Sunday special contests including single jack, double jack and machine drilling, burro races, log sawing and chopping contests, as well as a whisker judging contest, rounds the gala weekend for Placer County citizens and their guests.

Workshop Set for August

Community health, housing, youth problems, recreation, and social welfare, are some of the problems which will be discussed when 100 leaders from California cities meet at the second Workshop on Community Leadership at Stanford University, August 8-17.

The workshop was inaugurated last summer to meet the need for post-war civic planning.

It will provide an opportunity for key people interested in community welfare to meet informally to increase their knowledge, exchange ideas, and plan for local improvement, according to Stanford Professors Ernest R. Hilgard and I. James Quillen, executive officers of the workshop.

Dr. George A. Lundberg, head of the sociology department at the University of Washington and formerly on the Bennington College faculty, will deliver the evening lecture series at the workshop. In addition to the general sessions, there will be daily meetings of special interest groups.

Stanford University has received a $2500 grant from the Columbia Foundation in support of the workshop.

State Students To Present "Blithe Spirit"

San Jose State College will present Noel Coward's improbable "Blithe Spirit" tonight, Friday and Saturday, at 8:30 p. m. in the College Little Theater. The comedy which won the New York Drama Critics' Circle award for the 1941-42 season has been in rehearsal under the direction of Mr. James H. Butler of the speech faculty. This gay comedy was a success on the London stage during the war and was equally well received on Broadway. More recently it was filmed in technicolor by a British company and since its release for amateur theatricals has been very popular among college and little theater groups.

The following students have been cast: Elda Beth Payne as Ruth Condomine; Barbara Cornwell as Elvira Condomine; John Calderwood as Charles Condomine; Jo Hildebrand as Madame Arcati; Marion Samuels and Deane Healey as Dr. and Mrs. Frank Brandman, and Roxanna Hildreth as Edith. A distinctive set of an English country home has been designed and is being constructed under the direction of Mr. J. Wendell Johnson, the technical director.

Reservations may be made by calling the college at Ballard 7805.

Washington Visitors

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Williams of 1 Sunnyside Ave., are entertaining Mrs. Williams' brother, Pfc. Albert Owens and Mrs. Owens, who are vacationing here while Pfc. Owens is on furlough from his post in Washington.

Veterans Weekly News Column

Veterans in California, Nevada and Arizona may choose among a wide range of apprentice and on-the-job training programs under the Servicemen's R e adjustment Act.

More than 9000 firms in California, and nearly 150 in Nevada, and 4000 in Arizona are cooperating.

Training programs are approved jointly by the Veterans Administration and the state in which it operates.

Veterans training on-the-job are paid subsistence allowances by the government in addition to their apprentice pay, so long as both together do not exceed the journeyman wage in the trade.

Question: I want to apprentice in the building trade. Can you tell me how to go about it?

Answer: You must first obtain an eligibiity certificate from the Veterans Administration. You may then apply for apprentice training to any firm which is approved by the state. If the particular firm for which you wish to work is not approved, it may apply for approval to the division of apprenticeship standards or similar agency of the state in which it operates.

Question: I have a certificate of eligibility and intend to begin college this fall. In the meantime, I want to work as an apprentice in an accounting office Am I entitled to subsistence pay while working in the accounting office and will it affect my eligibility togo to college?

Answer: You are entitled to subsistence pay while working in the accounting office if the firm and the course of training you are to pursue are approved by the appropriate state agency. If you are single you may receive up to $65 a month from the government, $90 if married. However, your salary plus your subsistence pay cannot exceed the pay of the job for which you are training. That final salary is set at the time your program is approved. The time spent in this training will be deducted from your total eligibility time. If you are entitled to two and a half years of schooling and use six months of it as a trainnee in the accounting office, you will be eligible for two years in college, pursuing the same general educational objective. Any major changes in your course, however, must be cleared with the VA. In any event, you will need a supplemental certificate of eligibility from the VA to present to the college when you register.

Question: May I transfer from one apprenticeship program to another?

Answer: Yes, with the approval of the Veterans Administration. You will require a supplemental certificate of eligibility which may be obtained from the VA if the change is approved.

Moreland Notes

Our Trip To Moffett Field

On May 31, the students of Moreland seventh and eighth grades took a trip to Moffett Field. We left a little after 9. We entered the gate and had to wait a few minutes for Lieutenant McMurray. Mr. Vieira drove around the hangar and then we got out and went in to look at the blimps.

We watched planes land and take off on the runway. Then they brought out a jet plane and we watched it take off.

We drove around the field then and around to the other hangar, which we were not allowed to enter. We stopped again and got out to watch planes being repaired. The men were taking the engines off.

After this we left and just as we went out the gate we saw the jet plane land.

Time Saving Methods in Home Sewing

Speedy methods in home sewing are described in the Agricultural Extension Service Bulletin "Time Saving Methods in Home Sewing". Many homemakers hesitate to sew because they feel the time consumed is out of proportion with the results achieved. By studying the bulletin on "Time Saving Methods" homemakers will find many short cuts to speed up home sewing. Pointers on planning the work include directions for cutting several garments simultaneously, assembling garments without pinning or basting and doing many similar operations at one time.

One section is devoted to material on pattern alterations with appropriate suggestions for adjusting the pattern for future use. Detailed steps involved in putting together a shirt-maker dress by factory methods are included. The bulletin is well illustrated with photographs showing the techniques involved. Homemakers who can develop skill in home sewing will save themselves many hours of work.

The bulletin was prepared by Ethelwyn Dodson, extension specialist in clothing, University of California, and has been tested and proved by homemakers in many counties of California. To secure your free copy either write the Extension Service, 201 Post Office Building, or call Columbia 3866.

Citrus Publication Revised

"Citrus Culture in California", a 46-page circular of the Agricultural Extension Service published in 1940, has been revised. It is now available to citrus growers through the local Extension office, 201 Post Office Building, San Jose.

The circular deals with the history of the industry, kinds of citrus fruits and commercial varieties, propagation, locating and planting the orchard, fertilization, diseases of citrus trees, insect pests, harvesting the crop, and costs of production.

The publication was prepared originally by R. E. Caryl, who was then assistant horticulturist in the University's Citrus Experiment Station, Riverside. Revising to bring the publication up to date was made by J. C. Johnston, extension specialist in citriculture.

Davis 4-H Convention Again

Another important 4-H Club event of statewide interest is to return again this year. The State 4-H Club convention at the Davis campus of the University of California will be resumed this year after being canceled during the war years, stated Director B. H. Crocheron of the Agricultural Extension Service.

Attendance at the 1946 convention will be composed of 4-H Club members who are in good standing and 12 years of age or older. They are selected from members who rate in the upper half of their clubs so far as projects, records, and achieveents are concerned. A program of classes and demonstrations in agriculture and home economics by specialists of the College of Agriculture along with the usual good time when 4-H Clubs gather will make up the scheduled program.

Santa Clara County now has five 4-H Clubs in Coyote, Almaden, Palo Alto, Los Altos and Morgan Hill. Projects in all of these groups are progressing with the assistance of their club leaders and the help of M. S. Beckley, 4-H Club advisor with the Agricultural Extension Service.

"Voice of the Turtle" Coming To San Jose

Boyd Crawford in "The Voice of the Turtle"

"The Voice of the Turtle", "the perfect play perfectly acted", according to the New York Sun, which has one performance in San Jose on Monday evening, June 17, takes its title from a quotation from the Song of Solomon. John van Druten, author of this most successful and enchanting comedy, has also to his credit "I Remember Mama", "Young Woodley" "There's Always Juliet". Producer and director, Alfred de Liagre Jr., who was responsible for "Yes, My Darling Daughter", has done an expert job with "The Voice of the Turtle", personally choosing and directing all of his casts in the three current companies.

Phyllis Ryder, Boyd Crawford and Marcia Walter will stand out as among the most fascinating of the various trios who have been in the three companies during the last four years.

Boyd Crawford was in Mr. De Liagre's Broadway production of "Yes, My Darling Daughter", and in "Victoria Regina" with Helen Hayes. He is just discharged from the service, immediately engaged for the "Voice of the Turtle".

June Is 10th Annual Dairy Month

California dairymen, faced with insistent demands for dairy products and harried by problems of production and distribution, both knocked lopsided by the war, are joining with the Nation's giant dairy industry in a broad "reconversion" program for the 10th annual June Dairy Month.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson called on the Nation's largest agricultural industry for a "continued maximum production of dairy products for adequate nutrition at home and abroad."

"The fighting war is over," Anderson said, "but the battle of food production continues. It is my hope that the entire dairy industry will again make June Dairy Month the occasion to impress on the public, both producers and consumers, the importance of the dairy industry."

California's dairy industry, which last year turned in a record production of 1,250,000,000 quarts of milk, with a total value of over $365,000,000, is organized for a broad public relations program to carry out the desires of Secretary Anderson, according to Alfred M. Ghormley of Los Angeles, California chairman for June Dairy Month.

"This program of public relations during June Dairy Month becomes essential to the dairy industry as an aftermath of the war," Ghormley said. "With the public accustomed to limited supplies while the conflict continued, the lifting of ration restrictions soon after the shooting stopped brought a tidal wave of demand for dairy goods.

"Knowing that production last year in California and throughout the Nation was at the highest rate in history and that it continues at wartime levels, the public has been insistent in its demands for all dairy foods."

Ghormley said that the dairy industry has a job to convince the public that the milk pail in California does not hold enough milk to supply all demands. He pointed to the fact that while California dairymen increased their milk production in a five-year period, the increase in population of nearly two million people during that period far offset the increased production.

"Everyone wants milk, butter, cheese, ice cream and cream," Ghormley said in pointing out that when people have plenty of money in their pockets, they want the best of foods, "but at the present rate of consumption, there just is not enough milk to do all of this."

L. A. County Fair Head To Manage Grand National

C. B. (Jack) Afflerbaugh, managing director of the Los Angeles County Fair, will be general manager of this year's Grand National Livestock Exposition, Horse Show and Rodeo in the San Francisco Cow Palace, President Nion R. Tucker of No. 1A District Agricultural Association, announced recently.

Assisting Mr. A fflerbaugh will be Carl L. Garrison, secretary of No. 1A District, which operates the Cow Palace.

Coincident with Mr. Afflerbaugh's appointment, directors of No. 1A District rdecided to move up the opening date of the Grand National from Saturday, November 16, to Friday, November 15. The show will run ten full days, closing on the night of November 24.

Mr. Afflerbaugh inspected the Cow Palace yesterday and was enthusiastic over the possibilities for the first post-war presentation of the Grand National.

"The Cow Palace is one of the finest livestock pavilions in the nation," he said, "and offers unlimited opportunities for an outstanding exhibition of beef and dairy cattle, sheep and swine, combined with a top-flight horse show, a rodeo of champions and stellar arena entertainment.

"Naturally, considerable renovation is necessary at the Cow Palace after its four and a half years of service with the Army but this work will be pushed with all possible speed. And, with the capable cooperation of Mr. Garrison, I can see no reason why we cannot make the second Grand National an even greater success than the first Grand National, which was held in 1941."

Box Office Reporter

On Sunday, Monday and Tuesday the Campbell Theater will show "Stork Club".

B. G. DeSylva's first independently produced picture for Paramount displays its producer's showmanliness. It is to the roundedness of the whole rather than to the excellence of any individual part of it that the picture owes a unified effectiveness likely to carry it high in the list of box office attractions.

In Betty Hutton at her peak after "Incendiary Blonde", and Barry Fitzgerald securely ensconced on the pinnacle established by "Going My Way," producer DeSylva may be said to have placed in the exhibitors' hands all the ammunition they need to get a miximum turnout for the opening of the picture. And as if in awareness of the audience's interests, he has given these two stars an even break in his picture, an arrangement which works out admirably for each of them and for both, and for the picture itself.

It's a sort of uptown Cinderella story producer DeSylva and John McGowan put together for the purpose of dramatizing the Stork Club. Departing from the Cinderella original in point of time and place, naturally, and also in the important detail that this Cinderella doesn't have to make up and wait for Prince Charming to come around to tell her he loves her despite her lowly estate. This Prince Charming, a band leader played by Don DeFore in a stern, quiet way, resents her unexplained riches, having loved her when she didn't have them and it's that resentment which keeps the story intact while the humorous and melodic incidents of the film are being put by.

In essence the plot concerns an aged millionaire who anonymously bestows the privileges of wealth upon a Stork Club hat-check girl whose fiance refuses to believe right of her until she proves herself several times, inclusive of getting him and his band a job at the Stork. Harold Wilson was associate producer and Hal Walker gave the production outstanding direction. Four new songs by four pairs of song writers, all top-notchers, are dealt with by Miss Hutton in characteristic fashion and there are also two renditions of "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree."
